INSTALLMENTS

NEWS YOU CAN USE FROM THE JOHN C. HITT LIBRARY

Library Exhibit: \`är-kiv\

noun: a place in which public records or historical documents are preserved;

also : the material preserved – often used in plural

verb: to collect and store materials (such as recordings, documents, or computer files) so that they can be found and used when they are needed

Staff of the UCF Libraries Special Collections & University Archives has curated an exhibit looking at the types of materials we collect, ways we preserve and make those materials available, and some of the challenges facing archivists today. Included in the exhibit is memorabilia from University Archives; examples of analog and digital materials and the challenges facing preserving and making these materials available for research; and various types of ephemeral material found within the department. Cases in the exhibit also highlight conservation work done by departmental staff and various tasks archivists undertake when processing archival collections.

The exhibit will be on display October 24, 2016 to January 31, 2017, in the John C. Hitt Library
5th floor exhibit area adjacent to Special Collections and University Archives

UCF Student Book Arts Competition

Entries are now being accepted for the 2016 UCF Student Books Arts Competition, sponsored annually by UCF Libraries Special Collections & University Archives. Open to all UCF students, entries must be an original work created by a UCF student enrolled during the Spring, Summer or Fall 2016 terms.

The winning entry will be added to the Book Arts & Typography Collection, housed in Special Collections & University Archives, and the artist/author will receive a $300.00 monetary award. Artists' books are books or book-like objects, often hand bound and printed by the artist, produced either as one-of-a-kind works of art or published in small editions.

Entries are due December 16, 2016.

For additional information you can visit Special Collections & University Archives' website at <http://library.ucf.edu/about/departments/special-collections-university-archives/>; call the department at (407) 823-2576; or come visit us, we are located on the 5th floor of the John C. Hitt Library.
